

INSTITUTE FOR
HUMANE EDUCATION

Learn exciting, new approaches for teaching about...

- Human rights
- Environmental preservation
- Animal protection
- Media and culture

Sowing Seeds Humane Education Workshop

Presented by The Institute for Humane Education

Friday, May 30 • 8:30 am – 5:00 pm

Department of Anthropology & Sociology, Cape Breton University
Sydney, Nova Scotia

"This was the most informative workshop I have ever attended."

~ Bogusia Gatarek, Adjunct Asst. Professor, Madonna University, Watkins Glen, NY Workshop

"I think IHE is crucial in the world right now! Great work!"

~ Angela Sillars, Albany, New York Workshop

"...the activities were full of potential to be adapted to different ages. I look forward to humane education having a growing influence in education."

~ Bruce Russell, Teacher, Vancouver, British Columbia Workshop

The Sowing Seeds Humane Education Workshop, designed for teachers, educators, activists and advocates of social justice, environmental preservation, animal protection, and all those wishing to work for positive social change, is an exciting, interactive, one-day workshop that will teach you how to offer empowering, effective, and transformative humane education programs and to communicate about important global issues in a positive and inspiring manner.

TO REGISTER: www.HumaneEducation.org/events/

Or contact Tracey Harris: tracey_harris@cbu.ca

EARLY BIRD RATE: (through May 2) $95.00 regular; $35.00 student
Financial aid is available.

Registration includes lunch and a copy of Zoe Weil's book,
"The Power & Promise of Humane Education"